To do well in work and in school, we rely on our brains. We can take care of our brains by eating certain foods. Firstly, some studies show that blueberries can improve one's learning capacity. They can also reduce symptoms of depression; in addition, they are able to lower the risk of age-related diseases like Alzheimer's. Another way to protect our brains is to consume whole grains. That is, foods like brown rice and oatmeal should be eaten. Besides, tea may help our memory and concentration. When it comes to the effect of tea, keep in mind that only freshly brewed tea can do the trick. Bottled teas don't count. What's more, dark chocolate has been proved to be effective in increasing our brain power. Try the foods that may strengthen brain cells and keep our brains in tip-top shape. By making healthy choices, we can fight our brains' health.
